APPLETON, Wis., Feb. 25, 2019 /Christian Newswire/ -- In cooperation with FreedomProject, The New American magazine just released a special report exposing the existential crisis posed to America and freedom by an increasingly radicalized government education system. The report, entitled "Rescuing Our Children," dedicates the entire February 4, 2019 issue of the magazine to the transformation of America's public education system into what the authors describe as an indoctrination program to dumb down children and undermine the Republic.

The goal is to distribute over 1 million copies. The authors hope that educating American parents and pastors with the Special Report will help rescue enough children from illiteracy, ignorance and political radicalization to save America. Only the sanctuary of homeschooling and private schools will do, according to the authors, all leaders in the movement for educational freedom and excellence.

Dr. Duke Pesta, a prominent university professor and director of the K-12 online school FreedomProject Academy, explained: "We are spending more money and committing more resources to public education than at any time in our history. We have more educrats, federal bureaucrats, technocrats, businessmen, educational foundations, 501C3 watchdogs, and corporate sponsors focused on revamping education than ever before. And yet our kids remain ignorant about our history, are far less literate as readers, and become more math deficient with every year that passes."

Educator and award-winning international journalist Alex Newman, author of the best-selling book Crimes of the Educators, argued that the future of America and her liberties depends on this battle. "We recognize that calling for a mass exodus of children from government schools is still considered a radical proposal by some," said Newman. "But as we show clearly in this Special Report, it is time for radical solutions to this existential crisis. Our country, our churches, our freedoms, and our families are all on the line. We must take urgent action -- now."

Members of the media may receive review copies (print or digital) upon request. Newman, Dr. Pesta, and homeschool leader Israel Wayne are available for radio, TV, and print-media interviews. Newman will be doing a national speaking tour between May 15 and August 15, 2019, to promote the Special Report and sound the alarm about the existential crisis threatening faith, family, and freedom.
