

Henry Van Til
"Culture is religion externalized."

Culture is upstream from politics and government.
(That is to say, our politics and government are a clear reflection of our culture)

Further, morality is upstream from culture.
(That is to say, our culture reflects the morality of our culture and communities).

Finally, Religion is upstream from morality....and upstream for culture, politics and government.
(That is to say, religion is foundational to all the others).

Paul Weyrich to Ray Moore appx 10 years back
"When conservatives and Christians win elections, they still loose because "Culture always trumps politics."
